

Figure 5. Cerro Cubilete and Cerro de la Mina. Rock chip geochemical anomalies are superimposed on a ground magnetic (tilt derivative) image, illustrating the NW-trending magnetic feature which appears to constrain mineralization at both Cerro Cubilete and Cerro de la Mina. Underlying Quickbird satellite image shows the ephemeral lake to the north of the prospect.